Roy E. Carlson, Head Coach

Roy Carlson, who is regarded as one of the finest small college coaches in the Pacific Northwest, is in his third season as head coach at Pacific Lutheran.

In his first year Carlson molded a young and inexperienced Knight squad into the most improved team in the Evergreen Conference at season's end. However, an unbelievable rash of injuries dealt an unfortunate setback to his rebuilding plans in 1963. As a result he will have to start anew this year.

The real payoff on his excellent organization likely is a year away — the 1965 season — but there is little question that he already has laid the groundwork for a solid football program.

His aims are high: "I want our teams to go to the top — to do the best. That's what we're working for." Besides his football duties, Carlson, who has a master of arts degree in physical education, also instructs in the physical education department and coaches baseball.

A veteran of 19 years as a football coach, Carlson served as head coach at Olympia High School and backfield coach at Washington State University prior to accepting the head grid position at PLU in 1962.

In his three years at WSU, Carlson was freshman coach, and then co-ordinator of the football program and backfield.

From 1948 to 1959, Carlson was football, wrestling and track coach at Olympia High School where his football teams won five Southwest Washington Conference championships. His 1953 team was voted No. 1 in the state in the Associated Press poll. In 1950, he was assistant coach for the state team in the annual All-Star football game for prep seniors, and in 1954, was head coach for the State team.

Born in Chicago, Carlson was a star backfield man for Fonger High School where he finished in 1938. He came West to play collegiate ball at the University of Washington under Jimmy Phelan. As a Husky he played quarterback and left halfback for three seasons.

World War II interrupted his collegiate career and he spent four and one-half years in the U. S. Navy as a gunnery instructor and pilot. He was a lieutenant junior grade when released in 1946.

Carlson returned to Washington to complete his undergraduate work in 1946 and served as assistant coach for two seasons and one spring practice under Pest Welch and Howie Odell.

He is married to the former Beverly Gardner, a native of Detroit, Mich. They have two daughters — Linda, 19, and Caron, 15.

Experience

Ten (of 26) lettermen return from the '63 team, plus two from the '62 squad. Carlson has two veterans at every position in the line except center. The backfield has only three returning lettermen. Key veterans include end George Muedeking, tackle Bob Krieger, guard Dave Olson, center Craig Knutzen, quarterback Bob Batterman, and flankerback Les Rucker. Only five seniors are on this year's squad. Freshmen have the largest number with 21.

Newcomers

A better group than last year. Two transfer students, guards Mike Roberts, Grays Harbor J.C., and Morris Blankenbaker, Yakima J.C., and Bill Krieger, a freshman tackle from Issaquah, should bolster the Knights' interior line. Promising freshmen in the backfield are halfbacks Larry Kiel from Benson Tech in Portland and John Randstad from Milwaukie, Oregon.
