THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1985
OFFICIAL PROGRAM 100

LOGGER-LUTES GOING LIKE SIXTY

Puget Sound and Pacific Lutheran gridders have been going like sixty preparing for tonite's 60-minute skirmish, the 60th meeting in a series that originated in 1931.

While the rivalry is old, there are several new wrinkles in this contest, played under the auspices of the Tacoma Athletic Commission.

■ Tacoma Dome officials won't be knocking on UPS/PLU doors to collect the rent. Game co-sponsors Pacific Coca-Cola Bottling Co. and Domino's Pizza are picking up the tab.

■ This is believed to be the first-ever Thursday game in UPS-PLU series history.

■ Tonight marks the first league game between the two schools since 1964, when both institutions were members of the Evergreen Conference. UPS and PLU are now affiliated with the Columbia Football League.

■ For University of Puget Sound mentor Ross Hjelseth, tonight is his debut as a head collegiate coach.

This is the rubber game at the Tacoma Dome. In the two previous contests, which attracted a total of 23,958 spectators, the teams split. PLU prevailed 13-10 in 1983, while UPS enjoyed the upper hand in 1984 by a 32-22 count.

HJELSETH . . . A NEW FACE

WESTERING . . . A GOOD SCOUT

Ross Hjelseth might be a new face among college coaches in the Pacific Northwest but his goals include making the face and the University of Puget Sound football program more familiar to everyone.

Hjelseth, a former assistant at North Dakota State, has spent a great deal of time meeting and talking with the people of Tacoma since arriving in the area in March. Hjelseth's enthusiasm for the game of football and particularly the brand played at UPS has been obvious to all those who come in contact with him.

Hjelseth is not a stranger to success as his stint at NDSU was one filled with accomplishments. In four years the Bison compiled an amazing 45-7 ledger including the 1983 NCAA Division II National Title. As chief recruiter and offensive back and receivers coach, Hjelseth directed the number one ranked offense in the nation in 1984.

Hjelseth, 34, received his B.S. in Business and Physical Education from Mayville State in 1973 and completed his course work for his M.S. in Education at North Dakota State in 1978. He began his coaching career at Powers Lake High School (North Dakota) in 1974 and amassed a 20-8 record in football. He also served as the head track coach at Powers.

Hjelseth, (pronounced JELL-SETH), is a member of the American Football Coaches Association and a recipient of the Outstanding Young Men of America award.

Hjelseth and wife Ronni have one son, Brandon, 10 months. Ronni Hjelseth received her nursing degree from North Dakota State in 1979. The Hjelseth's are enjoying the sights of the Pacific Northwest and are proud to be part of the Logger Family.

Frosty Westering was a Boy Scout in his youth. Now he scouts young men as one of the NAIA's most popular, inspirational, and successful coaches. An October 17 tribute dinner (PLU's University Center, 7 p.m.) will honor Frosty and create "growth dollars" for Mount Rainier Council and the Lutheran Association of Scouters (see ticket order form below).

Westering introduced PHD football (pride, hustle, and desire) to Pacific Lutheran in 1972 after a fruitful coaching stint in the midwest. Frosty packs a 142-56-2 collegiate ledger and ranks second among NAIA Division II coaches in career victories. He's 98-30-0 at PLU.

Frosty directed the Lutes to the NAIA Top 10 in 1974, 1975, 1979, 1980, 1981 and 1983. His 1980 squad captured the NAIA Div. II national championship. Following PLU's runnerup finish in 1983 (the Lutes' fourth national playoff appearance in the last six years), Westering was cited as NAIA Div. II National Coach of the Year. He's been area small college coach of the year three times and honored by the district on six occasions.

A full professor, whose academic specialty is motivation and psychology, Dr. Westering is in high demand as a speaker and is a regular at Fellowship of Christian Athletes conclaves. He's been a guiding light in Lister Elementary School's Push-Excel Program. Frosty has received numerous community service awards, including man of the year citations from Rotary and the Tacoma News Tribune.

TRAINERS HAVE PROFESSIONAL RELATIONSHIP

Gary Nicholson

Pacific Lutheran's Gary Nicholson looks down on college athletics.

For Nicholson, a veteran of 18 professional baseball seasons, it's not a matter of being condescending. he is (a) 6'5" and (b) his focus has changed from arms and shoulders to legs and ankles in collegiate sports.

A Lute part-timer since 1973, Nicholson joined the PLU staff full-time in 1982 following stints as head trainer for the Chicago Cubs and Seattle Mariners. Gary was National League all-star game trainer in 1973 and represented the American League in 1979.

"My role here is different from baseball, dealing with both genders and tending to a wider variety of problems," said Nicholson.

"There's a lot more taping at PLU. We probably went through fifteen cases of tape a year with the Mariners. I'll use ten times that much here.

"In an injury prevention sense, we've always made special preparations for the UPS game, because of the artificial surface in the Tacoma Dome and, before that, the Kingdome for two years. Now preparing for every home game will be the same, because our new home field, Lakewood Stadium, has synthetic turf.

"For artificial turf, we'll check shoes to see that they have an ample gripping surface. We'll apply more pads to knees and elbows because there is a greater occurrence of abrasions and burns. Also, we'll go through more fluid because it's warmer and drier. Both Zeke Schuldts and I are happy not to have to worry about slippery field injuries in this game.

"Zeke and I don't view each other as rivals," added the 1966 College of Idaho graduate, who holds a Master's degree from Indiana University. "We have a professional relationship and talk back and forth about equipment, injuries, and student assistants. I've known and respected Zeke since I was the trainer for the old Tacoma Cubs in the Pacific Coast League and he was a student trainer at UPS."

One University of Puget Sound supporter has seen 15 years of Logger football but has never had a good seat.

Jim "Zeke" Schuldts is the veteran trainer for the UPS Loggers and usually catches glimpses of the games between the silhouettes that dot the sidelines of any football game.

A graduate of UPS in 1968 he became the first trainer for the Loggers after serving as a student trainer during his college days. He has seen his share of muddy and sore athletes along the way.

Schuldts is also the mentor for many aspiring trainers through the sports medicine program on campus. Under the supervision of "Zeke", 12 to 15 students annually get an important opportunity for a close up look at athletic training. The sports medicine staff divides duties as they provide care for athletes from 21 intercollegiate sports. "The people who get involved in the program have to be very self-motivated, it is something that has to come from within," noted Schuldts. His approach is simple and his philosophy sound. "I always try to provide equal treatment for all athletes."

To watch the UPS training staff work is to understand the philosophy and see the words put to action. Schuldts and his hard working students are concerned for all players safety no matter the sport, the gender, or even the side of the field on which they stand. Schuldts is very proud of the work the student trainers do at UPS and rightfully so. Most students put in long hours and many cold wet games in order to better prepare themselves for a career.

If Jim "Zeke" Schuldts spends another 15 years caring and treating the athletes of the University of Puget Sound odds are that he will never have a really good seat.

Jim "Zeke" Schuldts

LES LUTES NETTOIENT

It's safe to say that Pacific Lutheran footballers came back smelling like a rose following a July 16-30 junket to the French Riviera.

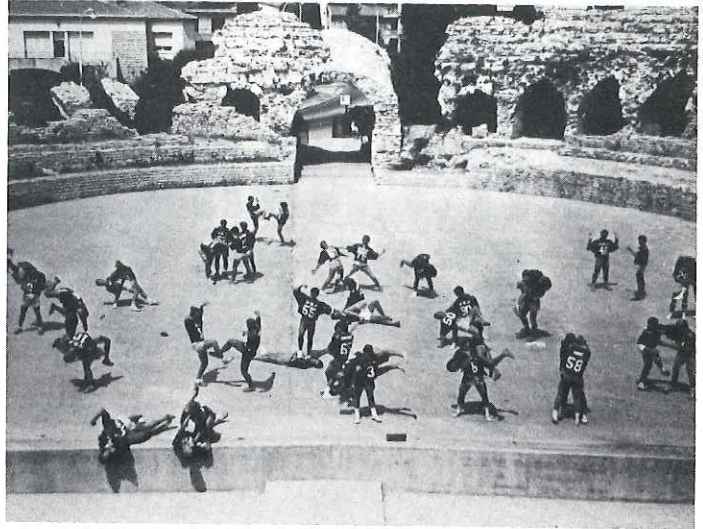

That could be attributed in part, to a three-game sweep (nettoient) of the Paris Blue Angels by scores of 40-12, 39-0 and 36-13. Then there was the team's buying spree at a perfume factory outside Cannes.

"We experienced a range of emotions dropping in on a different culture," said PLU head coach Frosty Westering.

"It started with frustration, but the upward spiral brought excitement and inspiration. We struggled the first few days in Nice with the language barrier, trying to clear up lodging, meal, and transportation arrangements. When our interpreter arrived, things started to fall in place. Throughout the trip, our body language was better than our literal delivery. We learned more new moves than a dancer in a disco.

"I couldn't overstate the cultural enrichment that we savored. There was total involvement by the team in numerous off-the-field activities. We only practiced three times the entire trip. We actually coached our opponents and they were willing and eager pupils. In sharing the double-win philosophy, I think we helped them to become the best that they could be.

"Our visit transcended football and PLU. We represented our country in other ways and I was proud of our ambassadorial performance. We certainly weren't perceived as Ugly Americans.

"We put on a passing drill prior to a soccer game in Nice before a crowd of nearly 30,000 people. At the Promenade des Anglais (Parade of Flowers) in Nice, one of the biggest in France, we marched, did go-drills, and passed out flowers to spectators. There were clinics, seminars, and side trips to the Cannes Film Festival Theater, Monte Carlo, and, of course, the beaches."
