Motion: by Jason, seconded by Brian, all in favor - to approve the policy language for reimbursement of background checks

Background screening according to UAHA and USAH Policies and Procedures are required for all adult coaches, board members, staff and other volunteers that have regular interaction with athletes. USAH requires a valid background screen that has been completed within the previous season. If you did a screening for the 2019-2020 season, you do not need to do a screening for the 2020-21 season. Applicants will be required to pay for their own screening. DCYHA will reimburse for all necessary background screenings however we will deny unnecessary background screening. Reimbursements will only be given for current year background screenings. Reimbursements will not be given for background screening in consecutive years. If reimbursement was given for the 2019-20 season, reimbursement will not be given for the 2020-21 season because the background screening is unnecessary.

- Reimbursement form will mirror that used for the Eagles.

Action Items:

Consideration of proposal to bring DCYHA play in house (Rich)

Background:

When I was a child, the youth hockey program in Salt Lake was SLAHA, Salt Lake Amateur Hockey Association. We typically had a four-team house league. It was split equally. The most-skilled players made the one travel team the state had at the time and were taken from out of that league, along with a those from Ogden and Provo. Once a year, our house teams would travel to Ogden and once they would travel to Salt Lake for special games against different kids which did not count in the standings. We had a double elimination tournament at the end of the year, team parties, lots of fun.

Over the years as the sport grew, new organizations formed for various reasons. As organizations formed, they generally had one team per division and played each other. Some teams were stronger than others, but with one team per organization, there were strong teams and weaker teams just like many leagues. Somewhere along the way, one or more of the organizations had enough players for two teams, which begged the question, "How do we split them and compete fairly with the other organizations?" The solution was to split the teams equally and eventually nearly every program had two teams, splitting equally. Although a purely travel league, with no play in house, because each organization split its teams equally, it was generally called "house." This is not completely accurate, however, as in a house league, all players in the entire league would need to be pooled together and split equally. And a house league also generally plays at one location, hence the term "house."

DCYHA generally fielded 2 teams (occasionally 1 or 3) which were split evenly by skill and a "select" team was formed out of those teams which could play in tournaments, travel out of state here and there. Other organizations had similar structures with their "house" or more accurately "rec" teams and a select team that played only in tournaments.

At the Mite level, the state asked each organization to host a “jamboree” monthly and the Utah Grizzlies would donate ice to the state to have a couple extra as well. It provided a great opportunity for the youngest players to play all the other organizations without travelling long distances.

There were many issues that led to creation of D1 and D2. The then-allowed double rostering of travel players to “house” rosters (and the subsequent select teams) created many issues such as complaints of team stacking, ringers showing up to the year end tournament (of which there was only one in each age division), etc. Organizations also wanted to be able to pair their most skilled and lesser skilled players together in more equitable competition for the benefit of all players.

This also would line up our organizations with the way the rest of the hockey world generally operates. One year, Idaho Falls signed their B team up for Iron Cup and parents were upset because they had recently participated in their state B tournament, calling them a fully travel team, not recognizing that our “rec” teams were fully travel c and our “select” team formed to become travel B. But it also put the idea of getting the players of like skill to compete together more to the forefront.

The creation of D1 (in essence travel B) and D2 (travel C) spoke to the fact that all the organizations are travel programs. It also made sense that travel A or AA players should not play on a travel b or c team and ended double rostering.

There were many benefits created from the new D1 and D2 “leagues” and many of the problems between organizations and skill levels was solved, but other issues always seem to surface.

Current Situation:

This brings us today. There is now URHL, WRHL, and friendly play. There is no clear path for DCYHA and no mandate from the board. People in favor of one, both, or neither all make solid points.

We also have issues with travel. We ask our newest players to travel long distances to play or just miss games. Many players sign up not knowing the costs and time of playing even “local” travel hockey. What used to be called “house” hockey requires hotel stays in Vernal. Many get hotels in Logan and Provo. Drives to all rinks can be dangerous but especially winter drives to Logan, Vernal, and Park City can be very dangerous.

And that only addresses those who sign up. Speaking to Rico at the rec center, he receives numerous calls from people asking about hockey that are not interested when they find out the details of the program. DCYHA is in the South Davis Recreation book and nearly if not all of the other activities in the book happen at one location, all located in the area.

Solution:

DCYHA should bring play in house. We should split our players evenly across teams (2-4) and play at the South Davis Recreation Center every week (except regular holidays where hockey is off). We have one hour per division in the morning so one game per division is already possible. There is also an early morning hour not currently available that has been in the past and a slot in the afternoon so 2 of the 3 divisions could field four teams as soon as registration allows. Finding one additional hour will allow for a full house league across all DC Wind divisions.

Playing true house hockey would allow our newest and least skilled, as well as less committed or financially able families to participate in a fun, yet competitive environment at SDRC weekly.

It is fully understood that there are DCYHA players and families that desire further competition than in-house play. This is normal and acceptable. Select teams would be created out of the house teams. Those teams would compete in local tournaments, including representing DCYHA at Iron Cup, and travel out of state as allowed by DCYHA and state rules. Those teams could acquire additional practice time as available at SDRC or other local rinks and could play games against other organizations B level teams.

At the 8U Mite level, the Mite division should play in house with games on the outside and our 6U in the middle. The 8U division should work with the state and other organizations to bring back monthly jamborees, allowing those players to play all the organizations while travelling to one location.

At the 14U level, the league should be modified to be a 14U/16U flex no check league. This would help fill our generally least registered division while giving older players brand new to the game, including high school JV players and girls looking for a no-check environment, a place to develop.

In the process, we create a clear development path. From House to Select to Eagles. Players would have a select team to earn a place on each year and players not on that team all play together, including with those select players most weeks.

DCYHA, should begin closely monitoring player development. All players should be interviewed with their parents/guardians to determine if they are purely recreational or have competitive goals. Players should be given paths to attain those goals and should be evaluated at the beginning, middle, and end of the season to ensure they are on the path or understand why they are not.

Pros of this structure:

- Costs lowered to organization and families
- Less time commitment
- No travel commitment
- No dangerous winter drives (apart from trips to SDRC)
- Rental Gear stays at SDRC (could handle much like ski rentals)
- New players able to rent skates at SDRC weekly
- Become more feasible to new interested families by fitting into a similar model to the other sports offered
- We manage our own league without worrying about any other organization (in house).
  - DCYHA can create its own player eligibility rules (i.e., 14u/16u flex no check)
  - Our house teams could register ISI be and cost less while making it easier to secure coaches, much like the successful Salt Lake County model, while our select team and Eagles teams register with USA Hockey
  - Gameplay starts and ends at our own discretion. Could start as soon as first or second week with only short preseason to ensure teams are split evenly
  - We make the rules of our end of year tournament (weekend tourney, double elimination over a few weeks, etc.)

Cons:

- None.

I can see some saying that playing the same team each week is a con. I do not see it that way.

I could also understand some saying that playing other kids for organizations would create a more competitive atmosphere and in-house play would not allow for that. To those I would just mention again that this one issue only applies to the families that have no desire to play select or are generally our newer and less-skilled players. Our more skilled players who have the desire and commitment level will be on their division's select team and play in tournaments and against other programs. It also only exists as long if there are two teams in a division. At four teams, teams would only meet every fourth week, many times longer than that with holidays or other events (jamborees for mites).

MOTION:

I move to bring DCYHA play in house, playing at the South Davis Recreation Center. Select teams should be chosen out of our house league, and that only house league players may be eligible to participate on a select team. Exemptions may be made as necessary and approved by the DCYHA board (mited jamborees, special games against other orgs, etc.). Select teams may play other organizations and tournaments according to UAHA rules.

A player development director position should be created or the role included in an existing position. Said position should be familiar with player goals and regularly evaluate development of players.

Discussion about policy for if and when a player test positive for COVID (Rich)

It's my understanding that a 14U Eagles Tier II player tested positive for COVID and because of this they stepped out of their round robin this past weekend. One of the player's dads is coaching my son's travel team and he is the hospital for unknown reasons. No clue if it's COVID or anything else, but it did get me to thinking.

We should put a policy for if and when a player tests positive for COVID. For instance, is the entire Eagles Tier II team quarantining for 14 days? Are we requiring negative tests from all players before returning to play? Are you making sure that our players aren't going to school during the quarantine period.

Again, don't want to panic or start even more drama around the Eagles tier II but I think we really need some protocols in place. With the county cancelling youth hockey this season we don't want to be caught with our pants down.

COVID Contact Tracing

<https://docs.google.com/forms/d/19PeDtk9NBWHIIMeVjI3Tm-G3CeKHcZQJWaYJ7dTTjF4/edit>

Style could be copied by Division with each player name / number and the parents can answer the CDC questions before each and every practice or game event for DC Wind players/coaches.
