Jeanne Larson beat out Lisa Koelfgen of Robbinsdale Armstrong for the title when Koelfgen, a co-favorite for the race with Barb Unzen of Cloquet, fell three times. Koelfgen, who had placed second last winter, won the track championship last spring at 3200m and the fall cross-country running title in the fall, was looking to add a winter skiing title to her accolades. Beckie Fuller, who was fifth last year, and a co-favorite, finished fourteenth. Larson, coached by Jack Jeffrey, had placed ninth last season as a sophomore, and would be the favorite for 1983. Unzen, who had won in 1981, ended up third behind Koelfgen in a close race for the top four positions.
