#8 WESTON BLEVINS

Weston Blevins picked up a baseball at five years old and has never put it down.

Before Game Changer and radar guns, there was kid-pitch. Weston had one of those moments people still talk about...before a 9U game, the opposing team actually checked pitching rest rules with the umpire, hoping they wouldn't have to face him in the playoff game. One of Weston's favorite little league memories was hitting his first over-the-fence home run. It was a deep shot over the scoreboard in left field, and just like that, a legend was born.

Fourteen years later the dream is still alive! Milton High School baseball has played a huge role in Weston's development, improving his performance and baseball IQ on the field and building his character off the field. He still remembers the anticipation and excitement of making the high school team as a freshman, earning the Pitcher of the Year award as a sophomore, and becoming a varsity letterman as a junior. As a senior, if he's not playing, he's practicing. If he's not practicing, he's working out. If he's not working out, he is taking a break to eat a Scooby snack and planning his 3rd dinner.

What Weston will miss most about Milton baseball is his teammates, the friendships they formed and of course playing ping pong in the locker room!

Weston would like to thank his coaches for pushing him to grow stronger both physically and mentally and helping to shape the player he is today. He's especially grateful to his parents for their guidance, belief in him, and constant support. He also wants to thank his sister Kylie and brother Nolan for sharing family time with baseball, including many "vacations" spent at ballparks. It's truly been a full-family commitment, and one they've loved every minute of!

After graduation, next stop - LaGrange College! Weston has committed to play baseball with the Panthers, taking his game to the next level and continuing his love for baseball.

#17 COOPER CHILDRESS

Cooper has been grinding on the diamond for 13 years, and he's poured every bit of himself into Milton Baseball.

As he gets ready for the next chapter, when asked what he'll miss most about Milton, he knows he'll miss the brotherhood—the locker-room ping-pong battles that got way too competitive and the bullpen hangouts that turned into some of the best memories of his senior year. Sometimes it's not about one big moment, it's about the time spent daily with the guys beside you.

Cooper wants to give a huge thank-you to the Milton coaching staff, his travel coaches, and his parents for pushing him, believing in him, and shaping the player he is today.

Now he's taking that fire, that work ethic, and all those Milton memories with him as he heads to Georgia College & State University—ready for whatever comes next.

#15 JACKSON COLLINS

Jackson was introduced to baseball at 4 years old. He has played every season since 2013, beginning at the Hopewell organization and later transitioning to travel baseball and being a year around player.

There are many fun memories of baseball, but his favorite is when he was 12 years old and he hit a homerun in the last baseball game before the season was cancelled due to Covid in 2020.

Jackson will miss his friends that grew up with him and playing baseball at Milton. His parents loved watching him along with Milton teammates from his first teams to his final Senior Year. Baseball helped him make connections with teammates and new friends when moving to travel teams.

As a sports lover, Jackson grew up playing a different sport every season until focusing on baseball in high school. Jackson has achieved the honor of being a scholar athlete while playing baseball. He would like to thank his parents for their time during Jackson's developing years in baseball. He would especially like to thank his dad who has coached him and has always encouraged him in the ups and downs of the game.

Jackson plans to attend college in the fall.

#10 JUDE GREEN

Jude has been playing baseball for 12 years and what a run it has been.

When asked what he'll miss most about his time at Milton, he didn't hesitate to recognize his teammates. The relationships built in this dugout are ones he'll carry well beyond this field.

His favorite memory comes from a game at Legion Field. He had family visiting from Pennsylvania, and with all of them in the stands, he stepped up and hit a home run. A special moment made even better by the people who were there to see it.

After graduation, he's heading to college with a long-term goal of owning his own business someday.

Most importantly tonight, he wants to thank his parents for every game, every practice, and every bit of support along the way.

#9 JACKSON HAUG

Jackson has been playing baseball since he could hold a ball. The youngest of 4 and the only boy, baseball was a much welcomed sport for the Haug family. He has played outfield, infield, catcher, and pitcher. As he honed in on his skillset, it was clear pitching was the role he was meant for. His work ethic, good attitude and love for the game has gotten him to where he is at today.

He will miss the locker room with his teammates, his countless bull pens, and coaches at Milton.

He would like to thank his parents, siblings, Capps, Eckstien, and Coach Jay for teaching him that showing up matters, that resilience is a choice, and that unconditional support is the greatest gift of all. He would like to thank them for sacrificing their time, money, and energy to helping him pursue his love for this game. In his words, "You taught me how to handle failure with grace and success with humility". He wouldn't be who he is today without their guidance, support, and love.

The lessons Jackson learned on the field—discipline, teamwork, and perseverance—will guide him as he pursues playing college baseball and an engineering degree at UNG.

#11 DAVIS NICHOLS

Davis has always loved baseball. Starting at four years old, you couldn't keep him out of the yard practicing for his big game. While Davis's favorite memory of baseball is hitting his first home run, the many hours spent playing with people he loves was the best part. He is particularly grateful to his coaches, including his dad, that have helped shape him on the field, but more importantly, off. The ups and downs, the victories and defeats, they all shaped Davis into the person he is today.

Some of the more wonderful memories of high school include winning the Silver Slugger award his freshman and sophomore year and being selected second team All-Region for fielding his junior year. He has also been recognized as a scholar athlete each year of high school.

Next year, Davis is excited to attend GCSU where he will major in Finance.

#26 MILLER PIERCE

Miller has had a ball in his hand since he was old enough to hold one. He began his baseball career in the fall of 2012 as a 4-year-old at Hopewell. He has never been small, so despite his young age, he fit right in with the older kids.

After several seasons of rec ball and a fun summer of All Stars, he transitioned to travel at 6-years-old playing with the Milton Patriots. The majority of his travel years were spent playing with the Team Elite organization and he also enjoyed a stint with the GA Bombers.

There are a few significant highlights that stand out amongst the countless experiences over the years. First, Miller has always performed best under pressure. He pitched in the final game of the 2022 PG Fall World Series with the flu and a 103-degree fever. That didn't stop him from winning the game and taking home the MVP trophy performing both on the mound and at the plate. Second, the summer of 2023 was a baseball players dream. Miller played on Team Elite's top national team playing the best competition across the country with kids from 10 different states. He and his dad lived on the road for 6 weeks traveling from city to city, racking up well over 2000 miles. It will go down as his best summer ever. And finally, who could forget hitting a grand slam on father's day.

While travel ball is a fantastic experience, nothing beats the pride of playing for your high school, for the name on your chest, for your boys, for your community, for THE TEAM! There are a limited number of times you get to put the Milton jersey on and Miller has loved his time playing for the Milton Eagles.

He's incredibly excited to continue his baseball career as a pitcher at Gulf Coast State College in Panama City, Florida. As his parents, we are excited to have more time to continue watching him play the sport he loves.

#19 BRADY SCHRIVER

Brady has been playing baseball for 14 years.

What he'll miss most about his time at Milton is getting to play alongside close friends and the bonds he's built with his teammates over the years.

When it comes to a favorite memory, Brady didn't have to think long: throwing a no-hitter with his family in the stands to watch it. It's the kind of moment you never forget.

After graduation, Brady will be heading to Clemson University to study Business.

He'd like to thank his parents for their continuous support throughout his baseball career.

#3 JESSE SMALLEY

Jesse started playing baseball at age 4 for AYBA. Began travel ball at 9yo for the Bombers and spent his final 5 years playing for the Georgia Jackets.

Jesse will miss the fellowship with his teammates, making new friends, game days and repping the M on and off the field.

Jesse's favorite Milton baseball memory is beating Roswell on Bowman's walk-off double in the bottom of the ninth to take the series.

Jesse is two-sport letterman in baseball and football. He has a state championship in football and has a goal to help lead the Milton baseball team on a state championship run.

Jesse would like to thank his teammates and coaches, his Dad for being his first coach & biggest fan, his mom for driving him to all of his practices & washing his uniforms, Coach Cory Cox, Coach Jake Alba, Coach Black, and most importantly his Lord and Savior.

Jesse plans to attend Ole Miss after graduation.

ELLERY SMITH

From the days he first walked, everyone knew that Ellery would be an athlete. What surprised most was his intense focus on baseball. No other sport would do. Every month of every year he wanted a baseball camp to learn at or a baseball team to play on. He learned every position on the field; hit in every spot in the line up; cherished every success; learned from every mistake; played with busted equipment through hot summers, and listened to coach after coach after coach.

Today still he loves and lives baseball, making new friends and playing with old buddies every season. All of it will continue next season playing for Southern Union State Community College in Wadley, Alabama.

Ellery thanks his sister for being a willing spectator at all those games. He also thanks his mom and dad, coaches, and especially Cam Coursey for helping him on this journey through baseball.

He leaves Milton grateful to participate as a manager this season and offers this advice to his baseball family: "Stay positive through it all, because there's always light at the end of the tunnel."
