Alaska State Hockey Associations policy is to have all players participate in the State camp. In the past we have made exceptions to consider players with injuries and those with conflicting game schedules playing on comp teams outside the State during the camp.

Players playing outside Alaska, but within the Pacific District, must go through that Affiliates tryout camp. Example, an Alaskan player playing in Washington, must go through Washington's tryout camp.

Players not going through the State camp may apply for an at-large bid through the State and/or Pacific District.

All inquiries and requests must be provided in writing to the Alaska VP of Player Development. Injured players wishing to advance to the District Player Development Camps may be required to provide a note from a medical doctor.

Players must still register for the State Camp.
