MEDIA E-NEWS RELEASES
The NWBA sends out advisories, releases and game stories; all are posted on the NWBA website at www.nwba.org. You can also follow the NWBA on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram. If you would like to be added to the 2018 IWBF World Championships press list, please contact Bryan Marseille.
What is the NWBA’s reach?
The NWBA is currently in 42 states and has nearly 3,000 members and 225-plus teams. We have divisions for Men, Women, High Performance, Collegiate, Division I, Division II, Division III, Varsity and Prep.

How many Competitions are there?
There are nearly 200 NWBA sanctioned competitions annually throughout the United States, Puerto Rico and Canada. The NWBA season is from October to April, culminating in the National Tournament, which was most recently held in Louisville, Kentucky, April 12-15, 2018.
HISTORY OF THE NWBA

World War II veterans gave birth to wheelchair basketball in 1946. They played in Veterans Administration (VA) hospitals in Birmingham, California, and Framingham, Massachusetts, as well as at the Corona Naval Station in California where World War II veterans were being treated for various degrees of paralysis. The veterans competed against doctors who practiced at the Birmingham Hospital. In 1947 the Birmingham team traveled to the Corona Naval Station where they competed in the first match between two wheelchair basketball teams.

Within two years, six teams emerged representing VA hospitals throughout the country. National tournaments were organized and hosted by the Paralyzed Veterans of America (PVA).

In 1948, pioneer and Hall-of-Fame inductee Tim Nugent organized the National Wheelchair Basketball Association and the first official National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament. That same year, in a remarkable act of self-determination, the Birmingham VA Flying Wheels took to the air and challenged VA hospital teams throughout the United States. Wheelchair basketball soon became the number one sport of individuals with disabilities. VA teams and players joined the NWBA shortly after 1948.

Wheelchair basketball for women began to surface in the mid-1960’s. In 1968, a U.S. team competed alongside the U.S. men in the Paralympic Games in Tel Aviv, Israel. Since only a men’s division existed in the NWBA at that time, the women who played in the United States competed on co-ed teams. As of 1970, one team had been formed, the University of Illinois Ms. Kids. During the 1973-74 season, the Ms. Kids played the Southern Illinois University Squidettes in the Men’s Old Gym on the University of Illinois campus.

This was the first recorded wheelchair basketball game between two organized women’s teams, and the first women’s wheelchair basketball game between two collegiate women’s teams. In 1977 a proposal to create a Women’s Division proposed to the NWBA by University of Illinois graduate student and future Hall-of-Fame inducted Bob Szyman. In 1978, six teams were formed to compete in the national tournament, hosted by the University of Illinois.

Since 1991, the NWBA has attained considerable recognition in the public domain. It became an associate member of the U.S. Congress. It is an active member of USA Basketball.

The NWBA has since grown to over 225 teams and boasts nearly 3,000 members. The National Wheelchair Basketball Association has given birth to hundreds of teams from around the globe. The U.S. now competes against teams from these regions at the Paralympic Games and the World Championships.

The NWBA’s National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament is the largest single-sport event in the world for athletes with disabilities. The NWBT is the culmination of the regular season with the top ranked teams competing for a coveted National Championships in their respective division: Adult DI, DII and DIII; the Junior Division’s Varsity and Prep levels.

Nearly 1,150 athletes compete for these titles throughout four days of competition on 12 courts. Additionally, the NWBA conducts National Tournaments for the Women’s Division and Intercollegiate Division at individual tournaments annually.
PLAYING THE INTERNATIONAL GAME

BASIC RULES
The basic rules of wheelchair basketball are very similar to running basketball (for example the height of the basket, distance to the foul line, three point line, etc., are the same measurements as in the game of stand up basketball), but over time they have evolved as well. In 1964, basic international rules were adopted which included minor adjustments to meet the needs of the game in a wheelchair. Wheelchair basketball is played in accordance with the International Wheelchair Basketball Federation (IWBF) rules which have been modified from Federation Internationale de Basketball (FIBA).

SCORING
A goal is credited to the team attacking the basket into which the ball has entered as follows:
- A goal from a free throw counts one (1) point;
- A goal from the two-point field goal area counts two (2) points;
- A goal from the three-point field goal area counts three (3) points.

Every team has 24 seconds to complete its attempt to score a basket. If the team with the ball exceeds this time limit, then the ball and the right of play is granted to the opposing team.

DRIBBLING
A player may wheel the chair and bounce the ball simultaneously, however, if the ball is picked up and/or placed on the player’s lap, he/she is only allowed to push twice before they are obligated to shoot, pass, or dribble the ball again. There is no double dribble rule in wheelchair basketball. A traveling violation occurs if the player takes more than two pushes while in possession of the ball without dribbling. A player is not allowed to touch the playing surface with his or her feet while in possession of the ball.

FOULS
The wheelchair is considered part of the player’s body in relation to establishing responsibility for contact on the court in the case of charging, blocking, going out of bounds, and other violations. An offensive player may not remain in the key area for more than three seconds.

In addition to the technical fouls that may be assessed from time to time as in stand up basketball, a player lifting his/her legs to gain an advantage or lifting out of his/her chair is given a technical foul. The player must remain firmly seated in his/her chair and must not use his/her lower limbs to steer the chair or gain an unfair advantage. In the event that a player falls out of his/her chair, a referee may stop the play if in his/her opinion the player is at risk of being injured, otherwise play will continue. On an inbounds play, the offensive player is not allowed to go into the key until the ball is handed to the inbounding player by the referee.

CLASSIFICATION OVERVIEW
Wheelchair basketball classification is based on the players’ functional capacity to complete the skills necessary to play – pushing, pivoting, shooting, rebounding, dribbling, passing and catching. It is not an assessment of a player’s level of skill, merely their functional capacity to complete the task. In particular, the trunk movement and stability observed during these actual basketball situations, forms the basis for the assignment of a player to a particular class.

CLASSES
Players are assigned points as their classification – 1, 2, 3, and 4 are the recognized classes, with 0.5 classes between for the exceptional cases which do not fit exactly into one class, and the 4.5 category for the player with least or minimal disability.

TEAM BALANCE
The total number of points allowed on court at any time is 14.0. That is, the total points of all five players actually playing. If a coach allows the team to have over 14.0 points, they will incur a technical foul on the bench.

Born in Chicago, Illinois in 1961, Ron Lykins is an able-bodied wheelchair basketball coach who once played basketball at St. Francis DeSales High School, but never thought he would find himself coaching the international level, and is one of the most respected wheelchair basketball coaches. He coached the U.S. Women's National team to back-to-back gold-medal performances at the 2004 and 2008 Paralympics Games. He has been the U.S. Men's National Team coach since 2013 and won a gold medal with his team in the 2016 Rio Paralympic Games.

Lykins was first introduced to the sport in 1980 when he needed to complete recreation administration field work for his studies at the University of Kentucky. He finished the 90 hours of required fieldwork in just two weeks, and as some say, the rest is history. In 1984 he decided to stay on at the University of Kentucky to obtain his Masters degree. It was then that he started coaching the University of Kentucky Men's wheelchair basketball team and that was the defining moment that cemented Lykins desire to forever coach wheelchair basketball.

In 1985 Lykins transitioned to coaching the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater men's wheelchair basketball team. Under his tenure the team went on to win two runner-up titles in 1986 and 1992.

In 1990 another turning point in his wheelchair basketball coaching career came when he was offered the post of head coach of the women's national team. He coached the team to the top of the podium at the 1990 World Championships in France. He continued his mark leading the U.S. women's national team to a silver medal in the 1992 Paralympic games, and coached the women for 18 years, winning gold at the 2007 ParaPan American Games and at both the 2004 and 2008 Paralympic games.

From 2004, the U.S. Women's Team won Gold in the America's Cup in 2005, took silver at 2006 World Championships and a bronze at the Friendship games. In 2007 and 2008 they won gold at the ParaPan America Games, Friendship Games and Paralympic Games. To date, this was one of the most successful eight-year stretches for the Women's National Team.

Following the 2008 Paralympic Games he began coaching at the University of Missouri men's wheelchair basketball team. In his first season with the Tigers, he led them to their first ever winning season. His team has gone on to win three Missouri Classic Championships and finished fifth twice at the National Intercollegiate Wheelchair Basketball Tournament.

He was appointed head coach of the U.S. men's wheelchair basketball team in 2013. He led the men to a 2013 American Zone Qualification Tournament gold medal. In July of 2014, the men brought home the silver medal at the World Championships in Incheon, South Korea and subsequently followed with a gold-medal finish at the 2015 ParaPan American Games in Toronto, Canada, where Team USA qualified for the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games and went on to win the Gold. He was inducted into the NWBA Hall of Fame in 2018.

Lykins currently resides in Columbia, Missouri, with his wife, Sandy.
Robb Taylor is a wheelchair basketball coach from Auburn, Alabama, where he is the head coach for the Auburn Tigers Wheelchair Basketball team. He moved back to Alabama in order to grow and develop the wheelchair basketball program. His experience with coaching wheelchair basketball dates over 17 years where he has been involved in many different levels throughout the NWBA.

He originally started out as the assistant coach at the University of Illinois, and in 1999 won the NWBA Intercollegiate Division Championship. He then went on to be the head coach for the Phoenix Mercury in the NWBA. With this team he won the NWBA Women’s Division Championship in 2003, 2004 and 2006. In 2003, he started working with the U.S. Women’s National Team.

After coaching in Phoenix, Taylor moved to Chicago to become the head coach for the Windy City Warriors. Under Taylor's coaching, the Windy City Warriors won back-to-back Illinois High School Association State Championships.

From 2005-2008 he was again an assistant coach for the U.S. Women’s national team. They won gold at the America’s Cup in 2005, took silver at World Championships and bronze at the Friendship Games. In 2007 and 2008 they won gold at the ParaPan American Games, Friendship Games and Paralympic Games.

In 2013 he moved from the U.S. Women’s National Team to the men’s program, where they started with a gold medal at America’s Cup. Taylor helped the men’s team to a gold medal at the 2015 ParaPan American Games. He was apart of the team at the Rio 2016 Paralympic Games and went on to win the gold.

He and his wife, Sara, reside in Auburn, Alabama, with their two sons, Jeremy and Jaxson.

John Sikora
2018 U.S. Men’s National Team Assistant Coach

John Sikora has had a connection with wheelchair basketball since his own playing days that date back to 1977. He played just under 30 years with the Pittsburgh Steelwheelers. He was on the U.S. Men’s National Team from 1989-1993, winning three gold medals and one silver while on the national team.

In 1983 Sikora was inducted into the City of Pittsburgh Sports by Ability Hall of Fame. Four years later he was presented the Outstanding Achievement Award by the Federation of Independent School Alumnae. He has been inducted into two additional Hall of Fames and received three additional prestigious awards as a player.

He has since then dedicated his career toward improving the lifestyles of people with physical disabilities. He is the current Executive Director for the HOPE Network, which promotes healthy lifestyles along with community integration for children and adults with physical disabilities.

Beginning in 2005, he became the assistant coach for the U.S. Women’s National team. With Sikora, they won silver at the 2006 World Championships, gold at the 2007 ParaPan An Games and the 2008 Paralympics Games.

His current position as assistant coach for the U.S. Men’s National Team began in 2013 and has been equally as successful. The men won Gold at the 2013 America Cup Qualifiers, silver at the 2014 World Championships, gold at the 2015 ParaPan Am Games and gold at the 2016 Rio Paralympic Games.
BACKGROUND
Arambula was born with spina bifida and stumbled upon wheelchair basketball after playing wheelchair softball at the age of six. He played wheelchair basketball at the University of Alabama. Arambula was co-captain of the 2012-2013 University of Alabama team that won the NWBA Intercollegiate National Championships, and in the same year was awarded the Performance Award. Lawrence “Trooper” Johnson has been in the sport of wheelchair basketball longer than most. Having first been a player, U.S. Paralympian, and now coach, Trooper’s list of accomplishments is also longer than most. In 2016, Johnson was inducted into the NWBA Hall of Fame for his numerous achievements and is considered the best long-range shooter in NWBA history.

Johnson first found the sport of wheelchair basketball after being involved in a car accident at the age of 17 that left him paralyzed. After that, wheelchair basketball was all he knew. He was a member of the Men’s National Team for 15 years. He competed in four Paralympic games, two world championships 10 NWBA all-star games and is a two-time MVP and NWBA National Champion. He also assisted Team USA in winning nine gold medals and one silver medal in international play.

From all star player to all-star coach, Johnson went on to be the assistant coach for the 2013 USA Men’s Junior National team. Then he quickly took on the head coaching role for the Women’s Junior National Team also in 2013. The women’s team won gold in the Youth Pan Am Games under his supervision. In 2015 he was the assistant coach for the US. Women’s National team that won gold in Toronto at the ParaPan American Games and another gold at the Rio Paralympics games. He was named the head coach of the U.S. Women’s National Team in 2017.

He is also the Youth Sports Program Coordinator for Bay Area Outreach and Recreational Programs. Johnson is also a member of the National Advisory Board for Positive Coaching Alliance with a mission to empower young people through sports. He also serves on the Board of Directors for the Northern California Olympians & Paralympians.

With so much experience, Johnson shares his story and gives presentations all across the country. His presentations are interactive and challenge students to truly understand people in wheelchairs and their unique abilities. He also tries to break down stereotypes as well as offer discussion in relation to drug and alcohol prevention.

Johnson is the iconic symbol in the NWBA logo. He and his wife, Megan, have a son Max, and triplets, Hank, Sam and Sophia. They all reside in San Lorenzo, California.
Assistant Coach Amy Spangler may be new to the Women’s National team in 2016, but she is not new to the international game. Her coaching career dates all the way back to 1999.

Spangler attended the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater where she obtained her Bachelor of Science-Education in Special Education. Being at UW, which happens to be a traditional powerhouse in wheelchair basketball, allowed Spangler to truly begin her coaching career in the sport. She began helping with the summer wheelchair basketball camps where she would supervise and coach campers.

Spangler fell in love with these instructional camps with young players who were eager and excited to grow as athletes. She became the lead instructor for similar camps all across the world. From 1998-2002 she led camps in Champaign Illinois, Seattle Washington, Tokyo, Japan, and Sapporo Japan. At all of these specific camps she instructed skill sessions, came up with drills and coached games that followed.

Not only was Spangler running camps, she then became the head coach for the Mad City Junior Wheelchair Basketball Team in Madison, Wisconsin, a . grade school team. Shortly after beginning her coaching reign with the Badgers she was then selected in 2001 to be an assistant coach for the U.S. Women’s National Team. She was an assistant for Team USA until 2004 and then went on to continue her career in Special Education and serve as the President of the for the Mad City Wheelchair Sports program until 2014.

ADAM KRAMER
2018 U.S. WOMEN’S NATIONAL TEAM ASSISTANT COACH

Adam Kramer joins the U.S. Women’s National Team as an assistant coach for the first time starting in 2018, but has a long history in the sport. The 33-year-old from Northport, Alabama, has been coaching wheelchair basketball for over 10 years.

After graduating high school, Kramer took a job in business management and soon realized that it was not the field for him. While business requires you consider profits and money as the most important thing, Kramer wanted to be in an industry where he could nurture relationships with others. It was at this point that he decided to change his career path and get a degree in coaching. He was able to obtain an internship in adaptive sports with the Milwaukee Heat and after a few months, he knew that this was the industry he wanted to build a career.

Kramer has been an assistant coach for three seasons with the University of Alabama women’s team and next season become an assistant coach with their men’s team. After many years of volunteering with the U.S. Women’s National Team, he was named assistant coach. Kramer player basketball, soccer and baseball growing up. His hobbies include anything that has to do with the outdoors and traveling.

Sarah Castle, President
Kansas City, Missouri

Sarah Castle is a four-time U.S. Paralympian, having competed in swimming in 2000 winning silver and finishing fourth in 2004. After a shoulder injury that left her unable to keep swimming, she then went on to play Wheelchair Basketball in 2008 winning Gold and 2012 placing fourth. She is also a five time NCAA National Champion for the University of Illinois, and two time Parapan American Games gold medalist.

Sarah graduated in 2006 from the University of Illinois with her undergraduate and a masters in Political Science and Government. She received a doctorate of law from the University of Missouri Kansas City in 2012. During her road to the 2012 Games she was also studying for the bar exam. She later passed and became a lawyer in the state of Missouri.

Sarah is a member of the United States Olympic Committee Athlete Advisory Council. She spoke at the NCAA National Convention discussing inclusion of adapted athletic programs. She is an advocate for children and their development with developmental disabilities. She worked on a campaign in 2008 entitled Campaign for Real Choice promoting the rights of people with developmental disabilities. Sarah became NWBA BOD President in July of 2015.

Bruce Fischbach, Vice President
Vermillion, South Dakota

Bruce has contributed to the NWBA as a tournament director and junior conference commissioner. He is the assistant athletic director for sports medicine at the University of South Dakota. He has also served the Make-A-Wish Foundation as a wish granter and regional ambassador. Fischbach has served as president, vice president and secretary/treasurer for the South Dakota Athletic Trainer’s Association and has been on the Mid-America Athletic Trainers’ Association’s board of directors.

Bruce received his undergraduate degree at the University of Nebraska. He is a United States Sports Academy alumnus with a master’s degree in sport science and was recently named to the South Dakota Athletic Trainer’s Association Hall of Fame. He has served the healthcare needs of thousands of student-athletes at the school since 1987.

Fischbach has spent time working with Special Olympics, minor league baseball, local youth athletics and athletes in the NWBA. He and his wife, Kelly, have three children, with Dylan a member of the University of Wisconsin at Whitewater wheelchair basketball team.

Curtis Lease, Treasurer
Naperville, Illinois

Curtis is currently the Business Manager at Western DuPage Special Recreation Association. His organization teams up with adaptive sports and programs to offer camps, trips and Special Olympic events for kids and adults with special needs.

Curtis played for the Chicago Wheelchair Bulls. He was a part of the NWBA East All-Star Team, that was a selection of the 24 best NWBA players. Curtis is married to wife Denise and has a daughter, Morgan and a son, Ryan.

Tim Fox, Secretary
Strongsville, Ohio

Tim Fox will fill the position vacated by Pat McCoy, through the balance of the original term (April, 2017). Tim is currently the head coach and general manager of the Cleveland Wheelchair Cavaliers. He won a Division III championship with the team in 2010. He has built the team and the organization to be the success it is today.

Tim also was a part of the venture in establishing the Junior Wheelchair Cavaliers team. He has fostered a great relationship with the NBA and in specific the Cleveland Cavaliers. Tim has also been a long time member of the NWBA Division III Committee.

Jay Abraham, Director
Mooresville, North Carolina

Jay attended Brown University where he earned a degree in English and American Literature. He received his MBA from the University of Pennsylvania. Jay has worked for numerous large corporations such as Heinz Company, Weight Watchers and General Mills. He also worked for NASCAR Media Group, where he won four Sports Emmys and was nominated for 14 others over six years.

In 2012 he became the principal for his own company Abraham Marketing & Media. Some of his clients included Red Bull and Earnhardt Outdoors. He most recently accepted a position at the Catawba College where he was appointed Dean of Business.
Will Waller, Director
Hudson, Ohio

Will was recently appointed to a two-year position as a director on the board and is a two-time U.S. Paralympian (2000 and 2012), and an alternate for the 2016 U.S. Men’s Team. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois in 1999 with a degree in Psychology and received a master’s degree in human resources from the University of Illinois. As a two-time U.S. Paralympic athlete in wheelchair basketball he earned two bronze medals. He has also played at the various levels of the NWBA and worked his way to the top. He presently plays for the Cleveland Cavaliers wheelchair basketball team.

Will is currently a HR Executive for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. He is the leader for Global Finance and Information Technology. Prior to his current position, Waller has worked for several other Fortune 500 companies in their human resources departments. He is passionate about wheelchair basketball and making the entire organization better.

Lee Montgomery, Director
Grand Rapids, Michigan

Lee has both been a player and coach of wheelchair basketball and is a three-sport phenom. He first got into the sport at the age of 14. Lee won a gold medal for wheelchair basketball at the 1990 Parapan American Games and played sitting volleyball in four Paralympic Games. In 1993, he ranked 10th in the U.S. among wheelchair tennis players. He was inducted into the Grand Rapids Sports Hall of Fame in 2006 and continues to be the only wheelchair athlete among those honored.

Lee has coached at numerous places including the Indiana Junior Pacers, Indiana Adult Pacers, Columbus Buckeye Wheelers and Grand Rapids Pacers. He currently coaches the Mary Free Bed’s Wheelchair and Adaptive Sports teams. He has been partners with the Mary Free Bed Rehabilitation Hospital for five decades. In 2015 he was inducted into the NWBA Hall of Fame.

Doug Arambula, Director
Valparasio, IN

Ray “Doug” was elected to a member of the National Wheelchair Basketball Association Board of Directors in 2017. Doug has been a longtime advocate and member of the NWBA. Doug is a pioneer for the NWBA Junior Division having been involved with the division for more than 21 years. Doug served as President of the Junior Division from 2002 to 2017. During his tenure as President, Doug created conferences, created conference championships, team rankings, created/dissolved JV Division, Junior National Invitational Tournament, female all-tournament and MVP awards, annual Junior Division banquet and Senior Showcase Games.

Arambula coached the CAWS Rollin’ Rebels from 1996 to 2008. He coached the Rebels to three straight National Junior Wheelchair Basketball Tournament Championship Games (1997-1999) and won the title in back-to-back years (1998 and 1999). Doug spent 36 years working for the Indiana Boilermakers Local 374. Doug served in various roles for the Indiana Boilermakers including Business Manager and General Foreman. Doug’s served in leadership roles with Hobart Little Baseball and Biddy Basketball for seven years. Doug has also been involved with coaching high school sports in baseball and basketball at Wheeler High School. He and his wife of 33 years, Karen, have two children: Ray, 30, and Jared, 28. He also has a three-year-old granddaughter named Harper. His son Jared was a member of the U.S. Men’s National Team that won a gold medal at the 2016 Rio Paralympics.

Anthony Bartkowski
NWBA Executive Director

Anthony Bartkowski was named the Executive Director of the NWBA in June of 2017. He first joined the NWBA in September 2015 as a volunteer and was named the Director of Marketing, Communications and Events in January 2016. Bartkowski possesses expansive experience in the Olympic movement, serving in numerous capacities during his career.

Bartkowski solidified Louisville, Kentucky, as the host of the National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament following a competitive bid process. He has also worked closely with the board in updating the NWBA governance documents.

As the NWBA Executive Director, Bartkowski oversees all management functions, including the day-to-day operations, budget, strategic planning, business development and staffing.

He graduated from Edinboro University with a degree in communications, where he was a member of the NCAA Division I wrestling team that was coached by four-time U.S. Olympic medalist Bruce Baumgartner. He and his wife, Kimberly, reside in the Colorado Springs area.
